Wide discussions being held

Ford, Mao meet

PEKING (AP) — President Ford met for nearly two hours with Chairman Mao Tse-tung late this afternoon. The 81-year-old founder of Communist China received the President, his wife, Betty; their 18-year-old daughter, Susan, and seven U.S. officials at his home near the Forbidden City in downtown Peking.

The White House said the Fords were accompanied by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, the national security adviser to the President; George Bush, the U.S. liaison officer in Peking; Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco; Assistant Secretary of State Philip Habib; Winston Lord, director of the State Department policy planning staff; and Richard Solomon, a member of the National Security Council.

After introductions, handshakes and some small talk, Mrs. Ford and Susan left, accompanied by Sisco, Habib and Solomon. Kissinger, Bush, Scowcroft and Lord remained for Ford's talk with Mao.

A U.S. spokesman said the visit lasted an hour and 55 minutes.

Details were to be announced later.

The meeting had been expected since about noon, when Susan Ford was called back from a trip to the Ming Tombs, 12 miles outside Peking.

The President met for two hours during the morning with China's acting premier, Vice Premier Teng Hsia-ping, and the White House reported "a constructive exchange of views on a wide range of international issues."

"Both sides found the discussions were beneficial," said the brief American communique.

The announcement said Kissinger and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua would continue the discussion.

The President was unsmiling and appeared preoccupied as he left the Great Hall of the People after the meeting.

The topics discussed by Ford and Teng were not announced. But White House spokesman Ron Nessen said before the meeting he thought Soviet-American detente would be one of the subjects discussed and "I think he'll explain the American position forcefully and fully and frankly."

Teng, in his toast at the state banquet Monday night following Ford's arrival, voiced once again his government's fear that because of the detente policy, the Soviet Union no longer considers the United States a deterrent to its territorial ambitions.

The Chinese leader referred to the Soviet Union as "the country which most zealously preaches peace but is the most dangerous source of war."

"Rhetoric about detente cannot cover up the stark reality of the growing danger of war."

Nessen observed that Teng's words were milder than the toast given by the Chinese foreign minister when Kissinger visited Peking in October. He added that they were much milder than what appears in the daily Chinese press.

Ford, in his reply to Teng's toast, said the United States and China have a "mutual interest in seeing that the world is not dominated by military force or pressure."

But he reminded his hosts that "each of us will of course determine our policies and methods according to our differing positions in the world and our perceptions of our respective national interests."

Mrs. Ford spent the morning resting. She and the President were to attend a performance of a revolutionary ballet tonight.

Nessen said the President is spending two hours a day on domestic business but has not yet begun working on the budget.

CHRISTMAS parcels should be mailed before Dec. 10 and all greeting cards should be mailed no later than Dec. 15 to insure pre-holiday delivery . .

In addition to timely delivery of Christmas greetings, public cooperation in mailing early has other advantages including eliminating backlogs in mail processing and transportation, reduces need for postal overtime expenditures and enables a greater number of postal employees to enjoy the Christmas holiday with their families.

Tips for preparing Christmas parcels include two strong grocery cartons telescoped together to make a suitable mailing carton; using plenty of packaging material inside the parcel; enclosing a paper showing the sender and recipient's name and address inside the parcel; using heavy twine and double knots where the twine intersects; printing the return and delivery address in bold one-inch letters on one side of the parcel; insuring parcels, and after Dec. 10 consider special delivery, priority mail and express mail service for mailing Christmas parcels . .

Only 10 cents postage is required on sealed or unsealed greeting cards . . Lines start forming at postal service windows at lunch time and near the close of the business day . . To avoid backup, try to buy stamps in mid-morning and mid-afternoon . . Use ZIP codes in the return and mail delivery addresses . .

DON RIBER'S "Behind the Scenes" column will deal with achieving show business success in this Thursday's arts page . .

Riber will cite a group called "The Young Americans" in his story and if you would like to see them live before reading the column, be sure and tune your television sets to channel 7, 9, or 10 this Wednesday (Dec. 3) at 9 p.m. . . The group will appear on the Bing Crosby show as Bing's special guests . . Fred Astaire will also appear . .

The board resolved to adopt a policy to indicate their desire to comply with the "sunshine law" which requires that all meetings of public bodies be open to the public and news media. Personnel meetings as well as other specific types of meetings are exempted, but the board is required to schedule such meetings during a public meeting and state the purpose of the closed session. In emergency situations, an attempt must be made to contact any interested parties.

A petition signed by more than 50 parents of ninth grade students was submitted to the board. The petition states that the signers support the text currently being used for the freshman health course and feel that the purchase of a new text would be a waste of tax dollars.

In other business, the board approved several transfers of money, resolved to accept Title II funds in the amount of $2,304 for the school libraries, accepted one student on a tuition basis, approved professional meeting expenses, and approved two proposed field trips for students at Belle Aire Elementary School and the Middle School.

Nixon said behind secret file shift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon personally ordered secret files on wiretaps of newsmen and government officials moved from the Justice Department to the White House for fear that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover would use them for "blackmail," John D. Ehrlichman says.

Ehrlichman, who was a top aide to the resigned president, said Nixon had been urged to move the files to the White House by Robert C. Mardian, the assistant attorney general in charge of the records.

In a deposition filed Monday in connection with a suit challenging the legality of the wiretaps, Ehrlichman said Mardian was afraid of the late FBI director and worried that he might send his agents to break into the office and remove the files.

He said Mardian feared he might be harmed by Hoover or his agents.

Ehrlichman testified that Hoover "was not above blackmailing the President" and that he might use the wiretap files "to secure whatever he wanted from the President," including a guarantee that his job would be protected.

The wiretap files were removed from Mardian's office in 1971. They were found in 1973 in a White House safe.

Ehrlichman's deposition was filed in a suit by former White House aide Morton Halperin, whose telephone was tapped for 21 months in an attempt by the White House to halt information leaks to the press. The telephones of 17 newsmen also were tapped.

The government contends the taps were legal and proper use of a president's authority to protect national security.

Ehrlichman said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger picked Halperin as one of those to be tapped because he saw Halperin as "singularly untrustworthy" and noted "defects in his philosophy."

Asked what was meant by "defects in philosophy," Ehrlichman answered, "He was philosophically in disagreement with Dr. Kissinger and the President on matters of policy."

Ehrlichman recalled talks with Nixon in which it was decided that the wiretap data could be politically embarrassing, "and Hoover wasn't above blackmailing the President with this information."

He said Nixon ordered the files made "secure from the director of the FBI through their destruction."

But Ehrlichman said the tapes remained in Mardian's office for several weeks. Finally, Ehrlichman said, he got a call asking him to meet Mardian at his home.

"So after church I drove to his house and he told me that he was very afraid of not only the integrity of these files, but also of his personal safety, that he felt he was being surveilled by Hoover through his agents, and it was only a matter of time before Hoover caused agents of the FBI to break into his files and recover the various records of this activity . . ."

priorities during a recent meeting of board members.

Three resignations were received and approved by the board. Mrs. Linda Edwards, home economics teacher, and Mrs. Jeanne Galloway, elementary librarian, asked to resign before the beginning of the second semester. Each submitted the requests because their husbands had been transferred to other areas.

Head football coach Maurice Pfeifer submitted his resignation from coaching duties for the coming year, stating that he wished to devote more time to his family. The board accepted the resignation with deep regret.

Miss Mary K. West, an active member of the Washington C.H. football boosters club, also addressed the board concerning Pfeifer's resignation. She said that he had contributed much more to the community than victories on the football field. Pfeifer and his staff have taught their players values of responsibility and sportsmanship which will long outlive their football careers, she stressed, and he is a "special individual" who deserves the commendation of the entire community.

Revenue sharing worries grow

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The nation's city officials and the White House are increasingly worried that Congress may not renew the federal revenue-sharing program which one mayor has called "the best thing since ice cream" for the cities.

This new concern has been demonstrated at the National League of Cities' annual convention that began here last weekend.

James Falk, associate director of the White House Domestic Council and the administration's chief lobbyist at the convention, said in an interview, "I am not immediately optimistic and I am more concerned than I was five months ago about the ultimate fate of the program."

The nearly 3,000 city officials at the convention heard the league president, Mayor Carlos Romero Barcelo of San Juan, P.R., warn: "We cannot possibly risk that any laxness or irresolution on our part may allow the critics of this essential program to score a 'victory' by defeating general revenue sharing."

And Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., former mayor of San Jose, Calif., and now chairman of the freshmen Democrats in the House, told them there is a "very real possibility that without substantial efforts on your part, the general revenue-sharing program will not be continued."

The league's board of directors sent a telegram Saturday to Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., chairman of the House intergovernmental relations subcommittee, which has held hearings on a renewal of the measure, and urged prompt approval of President Ford's proposal to extend revenue sharing for 5 1/2 years at a cost of $39.8-billion. Fountain has said he cannot act on the bill before the end of this year.

A group of Democratic mayors also sent a prodding telegram over the weekend to Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the parent Government Operations Committee. Mineta said Brooks has expressed "strong philosophical opposition to the program."

The current $30-billion, five-year program expires at the end of 1976. It has provided cities and states with the first federal aid they could spend any way they chose.

Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the league's sister, told a news conference Monday that without renewal, "There's absolutely no way I could balance my city's budget without revenue-sharing money."

Landrieu, who made the comparison with ice cream, has said that failure to re-enact revenue sharing would force cities to cut services at a time when recession and unemployment were generating increased demands on cities or to raise local taxes.

Some congressional Democratic critics of the program say it gives too much money to cities which don't need it or they view the measure as a Republican program. Others don't like relinquishing congressional control over and credit for the ways federal tax dollars are spent.

Doctor strikes under study by AMA clinical convention

HONOLULU (AP) — The American Medical Association, in what a spokesman described as "groping for a position" on doctors' strikes for economic gain, votes today on the issue.

"It is not in our tradition to support strikes," AMA president Dr. Max H. Parrott, of Portland, Ore., said Monday. "But we may run into this in the future."

Doctors' strikes have surfaced as a major issue at the AMA's annual clinical convention here. A resolution submitted to the association's House of Delegates seeks AMA support for a two-week strike last month by residents and interns at the Cook County Hospital in Chicago.

The resolution says the Cook County strike was to improve patient care, but Parrott calls the action "an obvious economic dispute."

Votes also were scheduled today on malpractice and national health insurance, and all three issues were expected to generate lively debate.

Young doctors who support job actions, a euphemism for wildcat strikes, are opposed by older doctors who reject strikes as a violation of medical ethics.

"The medical societies in Europe act as unions, but the AMA has never acted as a negotiating body," Parrott said in an interview. "But we may be at that point where we will have to get into collective bargaining in the future."

To prepare for this eventuality, Parrott said, the AMA is developing a department of negotiations to train medical personnel for possible collective bargaining.

The right to die and the conflict between legal and medical definitions of death — questions that recently have attracted widespread public attention — are not issues at the convention.

Confirmation seen certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of John Paul Stevens to the Supreme Court appears to face only the question of when rather than whether the Senate will confirm him, according to preliminary indications.

President Ford's selection has met with generally favorable reaction in the legal community and in Congress, where so far there have been no signs of serious opposition to the nomination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is to begin hearings Dec. 8 on Stevens, who is Ford's first nominee to the high court, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Monday.

Claim FBI ignored klan violence for half decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI often had advance notice of planned Ku Klux Klan violence but in one instance simply stood by taking pictures while Klansmen attacked a group of blacks and civil rights workers, a former FBI informant says.

Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., who now lives under an alias in California, is scheduled to testify today before the Senate Intelligence Committee. A committee spokesman said Rowe would wear a mask during his testimony in order to protect his new identity.

Rowe said Monday that he repeatedly warned the FBI of planned Klan violence during his five years as an informant but that agents seldom took action to stop it.

In an interview, he cited one 1961 incident in which he notified the FBI three weeks in advance of a planned Klan attack on a group of freedom riders in Birmingham, Ala. He said that despite his warnings, the FBI stood by and took photographs during the violence.

"People just got all beat to hell," Rowe said.

He said he recalled only one instance in which the FBI acted on one of his warnings and averted planned violence.

Possible state funding cut pondered

Appropriations measure eyed

Members of the Washington C.H. Board of Education met in a brief session Monday night.

Heading the agenda for the evening was consideration of the first draft of the 1976 appropriations. Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor submitted the appropriations based on estimated revenue of $2,279,162.

This figure is approximately $80,000 less than the actual revenue of 1975, but $175,000 more than actual expenses for 1975. Nestor noted during the meeting, however, that recent information concerning the formula for distribution of state funds is likely to reduce the 1976 revenue figure by some $20,000.

The proposed appropriations are based on state funding of $1,002,655, but the figure is likely to be reduced to approximately $980,000, he said.

The superintendent noted that the draft includes monies for the hiring of an elementary physical education instructor, some $7,500 for new first grade reading materials, and funds for a limited amount of elementary physical education equipment.

Mediterranean Sea reportedly dying

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Only massive international efforts can keep pollution from killing every living thing in the Mediterranean Sea except bacteria and viruses, French oceanographer Jacques Cousteau warns.

If the pollution continues, Cousteau told a news conference at United Nations headquarters Monday, the people of Barcelona, Marseilles, Nice, Genoa, Naples and the rest of the coast of southern Europe might have to move dozens of miles inland.

"The Mediterranean is so sick that only a carefully coordinated project on a massive scale can avert the disaster," the 65-year-old ocean explorer said. He estimated the effort would take seven to 15 years if launched immediately.

"If the Mediterranean continues to be intoxicated to the point of dying, the only organisms that will survive will be bacteria and viruses, and it is too frightening to imagine what this could mean to the people in the nearby areas," Cousteau said.

Cousteau would not set a time for the Mediterranean's death, but he said serious harm already has been done. Coastal areas have been completely depleted of fish, he reported, and the WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's $2.3-billion plan for federal aid to New York City is taking a short-cut through Congress, and backers of the proposal say they expect it to win approval.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame is scheduled to meet with congressional leaders today as the House begins consideration of the plan Ford offered to help the city avoid default.

Congress returned from its Thanksgiving recess on Monday and began plans for dealing with the proposal. House leaders immediately agreed to scrap the aid bill already under consideration and to substitute the Ford plan as an amendment, which means the measure does not have to travel through committee to reach the floor.

The President announced last week that he had changed his staunch opposition to any aid for New York. He outlined a proposal that would offer federal loans to the city during each of the next three years. The loans would be repayable each year at interest rates up to 1 per cent higher than the federal government pays to borrow money.

The Ford plan requires New York to revamp its fiscal system and keep its financial affairs under tight control.

The measure the Ford plan replaces had already won approval from the House Banking Committee and would have called for the federal government to guarantee repayment of private loans to New York. Ford's opposition had given that plan little chance of success.

The Ford measure was introduced in the Senate by Republicans John Tower of Texas and Jacob Javits of New York.

Massillon blaze investigation starts

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Massillon Fire Chief Mike Bednar says a heavy crane is being brought in so investigators seeking the cause of an explosion that killed three firemen can probe deep into the wreckage of La Cuisina Restaurant.

Bednar said Monday "positive readings of flammable liquids" had shown up in preliminary checks, but arson investigators needed to go deeper to pin down the causes of Sunday's explosions and fire.

U.S. Treasury Department bomb squads are helping with the investigation, along with the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the state fire marshal's office.

Bednar said he felt certain from preliminary investigation that the blast was not a natural gas explosion.

In addition to the three killed, two persons were injured in the explosion. Fire Capt. Joseph Glossen, 51, remained in guarded condition Monday night in the intensive care unit of Massillon City Hospital.

Also seriously injured was Norman Reeder, 57, a resident of the area who was standing near the building when the wall blew out. Reeder was reported in fair condition at Doctors' Hospital with burns and a broken right arm and shoulder.

Owner of the building was listed as the NADA Corp., whose sole stockholder is Mrs. Louis Battista, wife of a Canton racketeer figure.

Her husband, who was fined $5,000 in U.S. District Court in 1971 for numbers racketeering, declined comment on the fire and explosions that wrecked the restaurant.

A house and barn owned by Battista in Plain Township were destroyed by fire last September. Plain Township Fire Chief Clarence Snyder said his men were called to fight three fires in those unoccupied buildings within a period of about three weeks, and "the third fire did it. The buildings were destroyed."

The chief said the causes of those fires had not been determined. They still are being checked by arson investigators, he said.

At LaCuisina, firemen were called after a first, small explosion started a fire in the building. It was while firemen were fighting the first fire that the building blew up.

Kissinger vetoes Cuban relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, irked by Cuban "meddling" in Angola and Puerto Rico, has vetoed a plan to improve U.S.-Cuban relations through sports, American officials say.

Inspired by the way "Ping Pong diplomacy" helped thaw U.S.-China relations four years ago, State Department officials had looked favorably on a plan for U.S. major league baseball players to compete against a Cuban team next March in Havana.

Kissinger acknowledged last week at a news conference that such a plan had been in the works but said it was shelved. He did not give any reason.

Officials later disclosed that he rejected the idea because of Cuban military involvement in support of the pro-Moscow faction in Angola's civil war and Cuba's insistent demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Another factor, officials said, was Cuba's vote last month in favor of a United Nations resolution linking Zionism with racism.

State Department sources confirmed a report in Sports Illustrated magazine that two independent television producers, Barry Jagoda of New York and Richard Cohen of Dallas, have spent more than a year trying to arrange a trip to Cuba by U.S. major league players.

The magazine said an agreement to play ball was reached at an October meeting in Mexico City involving Jagoda and Cohen, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cuban sports officials. It said the ABC network was willing to pay $165,000 for television rights.

American officials acknowledged the game still could be played next March if U.S.-Cuban relations improve in the coming months.

But one official expressed doubt that this would happen because of domestic political considerations. With Republican presidential primary elections scheduled for February and March, any gesture toward Cuba at that time could cost President Ford conservative support in those primaries, officials said.

The last professional game involving U.S. and Cuban teams was played in Havana in 1960, a few months before the two countries broke diplomatic relations. In those days, major league rosters were filled with players who had come from the Cuban leagues.

Israeli jets hit refugee camps

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Waves of Israeli jets roared in from the sea today to attack Palestinian refugee camps in northern and southern Lebanon with bombs and rockets.

It was the biggest air attack of the year on Lebanon and the northernmost Israeli attack since February 1973.

At least eight persons were killed and a score wounded, Palestinian officials said. A camp schoolhouse, headquarters of guerrilla organizations, a guerrilla missile armory and a residential neighborhood were reported destroyed.

Guerrillas from the Syrian-backed Saiga group opened up with heat-seeking SAM7 antiaircraft missiles on the first wave of planes but hit none, Lebanese government sources said. The second wave blew up the missile armory with a direct rocket hit, they reported.

A government announcement said 30 Israeli planes took part in the mid-morning raids on the Nahar al-Barid and Baddawi camps near the northern port city of Tripoli and two areas around the southern town of Nabatiya.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said the targets were "a number of terrorist bases" belonging to "various terrorist organizations."

The raids apparently were in retaliation for recent Palestinian commando strikes, including an attack Nov. 21 on the occupied Golan Heights in which three Israeli soldiers were killed by guerrillas from Syria. The Israeli command said one of the targets near Nabatiya was a Saiga head-quarters.

An Israeli military source in Tel Aviv said the raids also emphasized that Israel would meet the Palestinian guerrillas "only on the battlefield" and not politically. On Sunday night, the United Nations Security Council agreed to invite the Palestine Liberation Organization to participate in a debate in January on the ArabIsraeli situation, and on Monday the Israeli government announced that it would boycott the debate.

The Israeli command said the air attack began at 10 a.m., lasted 20 minutes and all planes returned safely.

Car output to increase

DETROIT (AP) — The four U.S. auto makers have scheduled December production in line with fourth quarter estimates the companies made in September.

The auto makers said Monday they will produce a total of 553,400 passenger cars this month. Early this fall, the companies put total fourth quarter production at 1.9 million.

Each of the companies has scheduled increased output compared to a year ago, when they laid off many workers and closed some plants during the new-car buying slump.

Chrysler Corp. said it will build 69,000 passenger cars, five times as many as it produced last December. Last year, Chrysler closed five of its six assembly plants to bring dealer inventories under control.

Javits called Ford's plan "the very minimum" to assure New York's fiscal survival.

House Majority Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., said the Ford measure should pass easily now that the President is behind it, although conservative opposition still is expected.

And there was still the threat in the Senate of a filibuster from Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., who told his constituents in a weekend speech that Ford's measure would "reward bad management."

Cutting off a filibuster would require the votes of 60 senators. Acting Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he did not see any problem in getting that many votes.

Beame, in Miami Beach, Fla., Monday for the annual meeting of the National League of Cities, said he thinks New York can avert default if Congress acts quickly on the Ford plan.

Beame said Ford's turnaround on New York aid "had a tinge of politics to it." He adding that "politically, his first actions in denying us aid undoubtedly had hurt him very badly. As for this action, it's hard to say immediately how it will affect him."

Stocks show gradual dip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped into another gradual decline today, inhibited by doubts about the durability of the economic recovery.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.64 at 851.70 on top of Monday's 4.33-point drop. Losers outnumbered gainers by close to a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers pointed to continuing uncertainty over the prospects for maintaining the momentum built up by the economy in late summer and early autumn. Late last week the government reported that its index of leading economic indicators declined in October for the second month in a row.

Sony was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 10 1/4. A 105,500-shareblock crossed the tape at 10 1/2.

Nellie Fox succumbs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nellie Fox, 47, who was named the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1959 as the second baseman for the Chicago White Sox baseball team, died Monday of cancer.

FDR's daughter dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Anna Roosevelt Halsted, 69, the only daughter among the five children of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, died Monday of cancer.

Opinion And Comment

It still takes work

It is uncomfortable to be fat these days. Exhortations to be slim and fit are heard on every hand. The public is besieged with ads for devices pictured as all but guaranteeing a lithe body and muscle tone that will be the envy of all beholders.

There's just one little thing about these devices. Without exception, they require work - that is, exercise. However much they may seek to make the process look like jolly good fun, what these devices involve is bending, stretching, tugging, hauling, lifting, pushing or other activity designed to work the muscles, improve the circulation and otherwise pep up the old physique.

This is no surprise. Since long before the Spartans won fame for their youth training program, it has been known that fitness requires exertion. The new gadgets may make it look easy, but vigorous exercise is still the answer.

THESE DAYS By John Chamberlain

The age of the non sequitur

The silly season in Presidential politics is beginning early. We get plenty of pontificating, but nobody actually knows how the cat will jump in 1976 for the simple reason that the almost certain Third candidacy - George Wallace's - remains an un-chartable quantity.

Wallace, on an independent ticket, would hurt Republicans in the South and Democrats in the blue-collar labor states of the Middle West and Northeast. But by what degree would the proportions of Wallace-inflicted damage to old party alignments change if the Republicans were to nominate Ronald Reagan instead of Gerald Ford - or, at an outside chance, John Connally? Does anyone profess to know at this point?

The news weeklies raise the old bogey of 1964 in relation to Ronald Reagan's decision to fight Ford in the primaries. Time magazine wonders whether Reagan is "just another Barry Goldwater calling on the party to mount a hopeless crusade against the 20th century?"

You might think the 20th century has been a great success, a curious view when one looks at the record of two World Wars, a devastating international inflation, a politically inflicted energy crisis, and Marxist revolution that had made famine endemic in one-sixth of the earth. Not to mention the atomic armaments that are piling up, the detente that is another name for the Cold War, and the politics-by-assassination that no longer respects national boundaries.

POPULAR PROPOSAL

If anyone could really promise to take us out of the 20th century, he'd surely have a lot of votes. Actually, the Time-raised bogey is a non sequitur on the magazine's own say-so. Talking about Reagan's behavior as governor of California, Time says he "turned out to be more pragmatic than his rhetoric suggested." State spending doubled in California under Reagan, but the important point, which Time does not deny, is that when Reagan assumed office the there was a state deficit of $194 million, and when he turned over the helm to Edmund Brown Jr. there was a $500 million surplus. Reagan may have gone home at 5:30 p.m., but he got the job done.

Newsweek stresses the suspicion that Reagan, despite his success in running a taut ship in California, is still an amateur in amateur hands. Scotty Reston of the New York Times describes Reagan patronizingly as an old trouper. What is meant by accusations of amateurishness and theatricality is that Reagan doesn't have a background of belief that law piled upon law, most of them more unworkable than the previous ones, can get America producing again.

Nobody ever raises the point that a government of lawyers poses a basic conflict of interests: the more the laws and administrative bodies are complicated, with regulatory agencies piled upon regulatory agencies, the more work there will be for lawyers. Reagan is a simplifier in a world that needs to be rescued from the politically-imposed legal complications that keep us from drilling for oil, opening up new coal seams, and amassing new capital to put millions of unemployed people to work

TIME ON HIS HANDS

Time makes Reagan out to be a fundamentally lazy man - he spent the spring and summer after leaving the governor's chair doing a "lot of relaxing at his 620-acre ranch near Santa Barbara, grooming his two thoroughbred horses. . ."

I wonder if the Time editor who passed that sentence ever tried to groom a horse? During the same lazy period Reagan, according to Time, made more than a hundred speeches. He also ecoreded daily five-minute radio talks for 200 stations, and turned out a weekly newspaper column.

One odd thing about Reagan is that he likes to do his own writing. Would that you and I could be so lazy, even while grooming horses. All that Reagan managed to do in his lazy period was to gross a million dollars.

Newsweek thinks the heart of a Reagan speech is "pure counter-revolutionary rage." When every poll shows the unpopularity of busing and uncontrolled expenditures on the part of city, state and Federal governments, can one easily assume that a majority of the voters will not have some counter-revolutionary rage of their own to express? The question becomes complicated when George Wallace's counter-revolutionary sentiments are thrown into the computer along with Reagan's or, for that matter, Jerry Ford's.

As I said at the beginning, a three-party race is, for the moment, un-chartable. All that we can be sure of is that non sequiturs will continue to rule our punditical discourse.

Ohio Perspective

Collection agencies under fire

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A civil lawsuit now working its way through the lower courts may significantly expand the protection consumers have from deceptive practices, consumer lawyers believe.

The case has not yet reached a trial in the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court. But trial attorneys in Cleveland and the attorney general's office here both say that a pretrial decision already rendered could be a landmark in expanding the scope of the state Consumer Sales Practices Act.

At the least, the lawyers say, it would bring collection agencies under the act, which forbids deceptive practices or acts.

"That's probably the narrowest meaning of it," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Jay McKirahan. In broader interpretations, the decision implies that the consumer sales act goes much farther than the immediate buyer and immediate seller. The broadest possible application is not known.

"It's a very important decision," said Carolyn McTigue of the Cleveland Legal Aid Society, the trial attorney.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Helen Liggins against the May Co., a Cleveland department store, and Professional Services Unlimited Inc., the store's collection agency.

The class action suit asks for an injunction against deceptive collection practices allegedly used by the agency.

The agency asked for dismissal of the lawsuit, contending it was not covered by the consumer sales act. The agency said the May Co. was the only party in the transaction covered by the act.

But in a lengthy opinion which has since been chosen for publication in state law books, Judge Bernard Friedman rejected the motion.

He said the law was intended "to prohibit certain types of consumer practices...from the initial inception between the supplier and the consumer until the relationship terminates.

"In other words, that relationship continues from the initial inception between consumer and supplier until, as in this case, the debt is fully paid," he said.

Judge Friedman said, in effect, that when the collection agency took over the debt, it also took over the legal obligations of the May Co. under the consumer practices act.

He said to rule otherwise "would defeat the very purposes for which the consumer practices act was enacted."

The ruling has not been appealed since there has been no final decision in the trial court. If Mrs. Liggins wins, McKirahan said he expects an appeal, and "that will be the major issue."

Because of the importance of the case, the attorney general has joined the action on Mrs. Liggins' side.

The suit alleges that two practices by Professional Services are deceptive and thus fall under the act.

The suit said the firm sends a notice called a "post-judgment pregar-nishment form," telling the debtor that a court judgment has been obtained and that wages will be garnished unless payment is made immediately.

In reality, the suit alleges, no judgment has been obtained and it would be many months before a garnishment could be obtained.

Deaf dad's 'I do' breaks up ceremony

DEAR ABBY: You asked if any of your readers had ever witnessed a wedding at which the minister asked, "If there be anyone present who knows any just cause why this couple shall not lawfully be joined together, let him speak now or forever hold his peace," and someone actually spoke up:

Well, I have. It was at my wedding. When the minister spoke those words, my father, who was terribly nervous and is slightly hard of hearing, stepped forward and in a clear, strong voice said, "I DO!"

Poor darling thought the minister had asked, "Who gives this woman in marriage?"

I knew my father had been rehearsing that "I do" for weeks, so I quietly said, "Not now, Daddy. . . ." But it was too late; the church was already rocking with laughter. Sing me

BLUSHING BRIDE

DEAR ABBY: Four girls who work in an insurance office complained that they sometimes ran out of work to do, but their boss doesn't permit them to manicure their fingernails, do needlepoint or read magazines. They have to LOOK busy.

They asked, "What should we do?" and you, Dear Abby, the very paragon of honesty, suggested that if they like their jobs, they should keep "looking" busy.

That's not like you, Abby, and it's not honest.

There are always extra things to do around an office. You should have advised the secretaries to find such work and honestly do it.

Why didn't you?

CLERGYMAN READER

DEAR CLERGYMAN: Because the secretaries insisted that there was absolutely no work for them to do. But you make a good point, which didn't occur to me until several readers suggested that the girls obtain permission to do typing for charitable organizations.

DEAR ABBY: While a young couple was visiting us the other evening, my wife pulled out her breast and nursed our 6-week-old son in front of our guests. It bothered me, and I told her so after they went home.

My wife asked the wife of the other couple if it was okay for her to nurse the baby in front of her husband, but she didn't ask if it was okay with me. If she had, I would have told her it wasn't okay and she should seek the privacy of the bedroom.

My wife thinks I am ridiculous and old-fashioned. What do you think?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your wife should have asked you and respected your wishes.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your column on fire prevention. A friend told me that when she had a fire, she was in such a panic when she called the fire department that she couldn't remember her OWN address. Now she keeps the number of the fire department and her own address near every phone. It is also vital for babysitters.

Drug charge changed

Bad check defendant handed jail sentence

A Washington C.H. man was found guilty of four counts of bad check writing and a charge levied against him for possession of marijuana was changed to possession of marijuana for sale by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Monday's court session. Judge Case also heard a case passed involving a man charged with assault.

Robert M. George, 28, of 536 Comfort Lane, was found guilty of writing four fraudulent checks to the Clark Oil Co., W. Court Street, one check for $22 on Oct. 17 and checks for $25 each on Oct. 13, Oct. 18 and Oct. 21. George was fined $50 and court costs and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail on each of the charges by Judge Case.

The judge also dismissed a charge of possession of marijuana against George and waived the court costs upon the suggestion of Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks who arrested George and another Washington C.H. man with assistance of Washington C.H. police officers at 6 p.m. Sunday and found the two possessing nearly two pounds of marijuana. The charge was changed from possession to possession for sale by Judge Case upon Sgt. Crook's suggestion. The charge will be heard in the near future, George is presently incarcerated in Fayette County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Gary Combs, 2806 Miami Trace Road, was found guilty of assault by Judge Case and fined $35 and court costs. Combs was arrested for the assault of Herbert Deatley on Nov. 14.

At Kiwanis Club meeting

High school ROTC program discussed

The Naval Junior ROTC program at Washington Senior High School was discussed Monday during the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting in the Terrace Lounge.

The meeting's guest speaker was Commander Harold Vail, ROTC instructor. He explained the history of the program here and the objectives of the ROTC unit.

The Naval Junior ROTC program is in its seventh year at Washington Senior High School. This is Comdr. Vail's second year, succeeding Comdr. Robert Self who was the schools' first ROTC instructor.

Washington C.H. is in the Fourth Naval District, which includes Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware and part of New Jersey. There are 19 units in the district, including seven in Ohio. The Washington C.H. unit is the only one in Ohio which has never been placed on probation for rules violations.

Each group must contain at least 100 cadets to remain active in the program, and the U.S. Department of Defense will not permit any new units to become established until those on probation correct their deficiencies or leave the program.

Objectives of the ROTC activities outlined by Comdr. Vail included promoting and developing habits of orderliness and precision, developing respect for authority, promoting patriotism, developing a high degree of personal honor, self-reliance, individual discipline and leadership, and providing an atmosphere where cadets can become better informed citizens on matters of national security and the Navy's role in national defense.

The unit, consisting of 88 boys and 17 girls, meets for three classroom sessions and two leadership sessions each week. Although the program is Navy oriented, it is largely academic and presents information on the other branches of military service. Despite the fact that the program is an officers training corps, participants who later enter military service must join the enlisted ranks.

The commander emphasized the need to rekindle an interest in means rather than ends. He feels that the trend is toward a belief that crime is not a sin, only getting caught is bad. This type of attitude must be brought to a halt, he said. It is time that priority be returned to the manner in which the game is played, rather than the final outcome, he concluded.

Columbus man arrested by FBI

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charles Robert Norris, 34, of Columbus was arrested Monday on charges stemming from an incident in Frederick County, Maryland in September, the FBI said.

The FBI took Norris into custody at a restaurant where he worked. He was charged with embezzlement, larceny after trust and larceny by the Maryland authorities. The FBI added a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Norris was in Franklin County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond after appearing before a U.S. magistrate.

Poor taste party held

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— "It was the greatest," said Mrs. Judy Schneider after throwing her own birthday party. It was in poor taste. That was the theme.

She and her husband, William, set the "poor taste party" theme because no one else seemed to want to help her celebrate she said.

The house was decked out with the vacuum sweeper in the living room, leftover food at strategic locations, a wrinkled table cloth, frozen chrysanthemums for a centerpiece.

Refreshments included hors d'oeuvres on burnt toast, pot pies, tossed salad with uncut vegetables and cheap wine served in bathroom paper cups.

Out-of-town guests responded with collect calls to say they were not coming. One couple invited three other couples without permission. Gifts included a sponge cake—made with a real sponge, a funeral floral piece, a denture cup and 40 non-prescription pills.

"It's also poor taste to be 40," said Mrs. Schneider, who dressed as a little girl for the affair.

Old-Fashioned Calico Christmas Phi Beta Psi party theme

OLD FASHIONED CALICO CHRISTMAS — A newly-formed vocal group entertained the Phi Beta Psi Sorority Monday evening in Mahan Hall by singing familiar Christmas carols. They were dressed in old-fashioned attire for the occasion.

The Phi Beta Psi Christmas party and initiation was held Monday evening in Mahan Hall. The theme for the event was "Old Fashioned Calico Christmas" and as active and associate members as well as inactive sorority members entered the building, they were greeted by committee members who had decorated the room with live greenery, pine cones and tiny twinkling lights as well as calico trees, straw wreaths, tiny calico figures, tiny white Christmas trees decorated in red, white and blue calico bows, and lovely hurricane lamps.

Featured next to the buffet table was a small calico Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, accented with sprigs of bluespruce and pine cones.

Each dinner table was centered with whole, fresh pineapple encircled with live greenery and fresh fruits of all kinds. Background music of old-fashioned music boxes helped set the mood.

Following dinner, the guests were entertained by a newly-formed vocal group. Montgomery-Maust marriage in Presbyterian Church

First Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Nov. 15th wedding of Miss Lynn Ann Montgomery and Michael Robert Maust. Alter vases of red roses, white pom-poms and baby's breath graced the altar. The two seven branch candelabra were decorated with leather leaf and cranberry red and white satin bows. The pews were marked with foliage and cranberry red and white bows.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 10:30 A.M. for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Montgomery, 124 Eastview Dr., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Maust of Lakewood Hills.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown which she had fashioned of white polyester satin. The dress was closely fitted with an empire waistline and high neckline with covered buttons down the front. The A-line skirt terminated in a chapel train. A Juliet headpiece of Venise lace was attached to a short length veil of illusion, which was also fashioned by the bride, who carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and baby's breath with cranberry red velvet ribbons.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Jeri Maust, sister of the groom and Miss Marianne Arnold wore gowns of cranberry polyester satin trimmed in white lace and carried colonial bouquets of white pom-poms, red roses and baby's breath with streamers of white velvet ribbons.

Kirby Hidy served as best man. Ushers Jeff Thompson, Brad Maust, brother of the groom and Jeffrey Montgomery, brother of the bride, seated the guests. The men in the wedding party wore gray Windsor tuxedos.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of dusty pink knit and the groom's mother chose a seafoam green knit formal length gown. Both mothers wore corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

The wedding was followed by a buffet reception held in Persinger Hall. The white tiered wedding cake topped by a replica of the bride's bouquet was served with punch at the finish of the meal by the hostesses Miss Donna Nichols of Fairborn and Miss Besty Benner of Springfield. Miss Marcia Seifried presided at the guest book.

The bridal party's table was covered by white damask cloths and decorated with a centerpiece of red and white mums with baby's breath and trailing smilax. The buffet table, cake table, and all the guest's tables were covered with white cloths and decorated with trailing smilax and red and white pom-poms.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the new Mr. and Mrs. Maust are residing at 221 Delaware St. The bride, a 1975 graduate of Clark Technical College School of Nursing is employed as a staff nurse at Court House Manor. Her husband, a 1970 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is an electrical contractor in Washington C.H.

Prayer breakfast draws 61 persons

Sixty-one were present at the weekly teen prayer breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

"What is the Love of God Like?" was the topic chosen by Charles J. Richmond, minister, for the meditation time. Linda Hollingsworth, a senior at Washington Senior High School, and Marilyn Creamer, a junior at Miami Trace High School, led the group in a few songs. Kelley Steele, a junior at Washington Senior High School, offered prayer.

After breakfast, Carol Bryant, a junior at Washington Senior High School, spoke on "Learning to Pray." She pointed out that we shouldn't just pray to God in time of emergency or crisis, but develop a regular prayer life. Jane Henry, a sophomore at Washington Senior High School, dismissed the group with prayer.

The next prayer breakfast will be Tuesday, December 9 at 6:45 a.m. All teens, grades nine through twelve, are welcome.

Wendy Yoshimura wins support

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura, facing trial in the shadow of Patricia Hearst, is winning strong financial support from Japanese-Americans determined to give her as many legal advantages as possible.

The "Wendy Yoshimura Fair Trial Committee," which has its headquarters in Miss Yoshimura's native Fresno, Calif., is receiving inquiries daily from prospective members across the country, most of them Japanese-Americans, according to committee officials.

One such donor in New York sent $25 with a note saying the contribution was in memory of his father who suffered discrimination during World War II.

Organizers say Miss Yoshimura's legal fund now contains more than $5,000, plus pledges of thousands more from Japanese-Americans offering to insure her bail, currently set at $100,000, for release from the Santa Rita Prison.

Fresno Judge Mikio Uchiyama, who heads the committee's fund-raising efforts, said, "We are not calling it a defense fund because ... we do not endorse (her) philosophy. Nor are we prejudging her guilt or innocence...."

"We just want to be sure that no matter how it comes out, there will be nothing lacking because there wasn't enough money."

Miss Yoshimura, 32, an artist and onetime Vietnam war protester, was a fugitive for three years until she was arrested with Miss Hearst on Sept. 18 in San Francisco. She faces trial in Oakland on state weapons and explosives charges dating to 1972.

Order 33 to return to work

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)—Thirty-three employees of Gallipolis State Institute have been ordered temporarily returned to their jobs by a common pleas court judge here.

Judge Ronald Calhoun of Gallia County issued a temporary injunction for their reinstatement Monday but stipulated it is to be effective only until appeals from their dismissal are resolved.

The state institution was hit by a walkout Nov. 14, and at one time it idled more than 400 employees, said Herschel Sigall, counsel for members of Local 1790 of the Communications Workers of America.

Judge Calhoun said in his order that the action was taken in part because "the patients at Gallipolis State Institute are in need of the care and attendance of those employees who are on strike."

He said the temporary injunction "does not in any way interfere with the right of the employer (the state) to fire these employees for other reasons, nor does it interfere with the (employees') appeals to the State Personnel Board of Review."

Sigall, a Columbus attorney, called the judge's decision "a legal precedent which all public employers should weigh very carefully prior to future attempts to starve their employees into submission while the appeals process moves forward at its incredibly slow pace."

the Japanese-American Citizens League.

In San Francisco, where the bail effort is being coordinated, Edison Uno reports about $17,000 in pledges already received.

The Fresno committee has limited donations to $10 or less.

"We limited it to $10 because we didn't want to hit anybody real hard in the pocketbook," said insurance agent Mike Iwatsubo, coordinator of the fund.

So far, he said, $5,042.50 has come in, with donations from as far away as Hawaii, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania and Louisiana.

Archie heads All-American post-season football team

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Four repeaters, led by Ohio State's Archie Griffin, the 1974 Heisman Trophy winner, have been named to The Associated Press 1975 college football All-America team along with Oklahoma's Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey.

The Selmons thus completed a family sweep which began when their older brother Lucious was named to the 1973 All-America team as a middle guard. Leroy is a 256-pound defensive tackle while Dewey is a 257-pound nose guard.

In addition to Griffin, major college football's first 5,000-yard rusher, the other repeaters from the 1974 All-America team are center Rik Bonness of Nebraska, defensive end Leroy Cook of Alabama and defensive back Pat Thomas of Texas A&M.

The Selmon brothers are joined on the 1975 squad by teammate Jimbo Elrod, a defensive end, giving Oklahoma three men on the front five. Joining Griffin in the backfield are a trio of stars from the Pacific-8 Conference — quarterback John Sciarra, who guided UCLA to its first Rose Bowl in 10 years; running back Ricky Bell of Southern California, who led the nation with 1,875 yards, just six short of the NCAA single-season record, and running back Chuck Muncie of the University of California, who broke every school rushing, all purpose running and scoring mark in leading the Golden Bears to a share of the Pac-8 crown.

The tight end is Mike Barber of Louisiana Tech, a member of The AP's Little All-America team a year ago when Tech was a College Division school.

The rest of the offensive line consists of wide receiver Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Mark Koncar of Colorado and Bob Simmons of Texas and guards Randy Johnson of Georgia and Ted Smith of Ohio State.

Joining the Selmons, Elrod and Cook on the defensive front five is 6-foot-5, 270-pound tackle Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame. His selection marks the 12th consecutive year a Notre Dame player has been named to the first team.

The linebackers are Greg Buttle of Penn State, Sammy Green of Florida and Ed Simonini of Texas A&M. The defensive backs in addition to Thomas are Mike Haynes of Arizona State and Chet Moeller of Navy.

Bell, who was virtually Southern Cal's entire offense this season after moving from fullback to tailback, carried 357 times in piling up his 1,875 yards and rushed for 13 touchdowns. His season average of 170.5 yards a game is the fourth best in NCAA history.

Muncie's total of 1,460 yards on the ground ranks fourth in the country this year and is the third best in Pac-8 history, surpassed only by Bell and Southern Cal's O.J. Simpson, who gained 1,709 yards in 1968. Muncie also caught 39 passes for 392 yards and threw three passes, completing all of them for 50, 46 and 46 yards. The 46-yards went for touchdowns.

Griffin, who is favored to become the first two-time Heisman winner today, carried 245 times for 1,357 yards.

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Ohio State and runnerup Michigan dominated the 1975 All Big Ten football team selected by the Associated Press.

The Rose Bowl bound and top ranked Buckeyes placed seven men on the first team consisting of 11 players on offense and 11 on defense. Michigan, headed for the Orange Bowl, landed five berths.

Northwestern and Wisconsin had two players each while Illinois, Iowa, Purdue, Indiana, Michigan State and Minnesota had one each.

Tailback Archie Griffin and defensive back Tim Fox of Ohio State were the only unanimous selections of a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the Midwest.

Griffin and quarterback Cornelius Greene, also of Ohio State, running back Billy Marek of Wisconsin and defensive lineman Tim Davis of Michigan were repeaters from last year's all conference team.

The team is loaded with upperclassmen. Junior wide receiver Jim Smith of Michigan was the only non-senior selected on offense. Four juniors made the defensive team.

They were linemen Nick Buonamici of Ohio State and Blane Smith of Purdue, linebacker Ed Thompson of Ohio State and back Tom Hannon of Michigan State.

Gordon Bell, the league's leading rusher, joined Griffin, Greene and Marek in the backfield. Illinois' Joe Smalzer was the tight end.

Paul Jasinski of Northwestern was the center surrounded by tackles Rod Walters of Iowa and Scott Dannelley of Ohio State and guards Ted Smith of Ohio State and Terry Stieve of Wisconsin.

Joining Buonamici, Davis and Smith in the front five on defense were Dan Jilek of Michigan and Keith Simons of Purdue. Donnie Thomas of Indiana and Don Dufek of Michigan were the other two linebackers with Pete Shaw of Northwestern rounding out the defensive backfield.

Dan Beaver of Illinois was selected as place kicker and Tom Skladany of Ohio State the punter.

Pfeifer resignation made official by school board

By Phil Lewis
Record Herald Sports Editor
The letter was dated Oct. 22 and began: "I wish to inform the Board of Education that I am resigning my position as head football coach of the Blue Lions at the end of this school year."

Board member Fred Domenico made it official Monday night when he said, with obvious emotion at the board meeting, "He has been good for the youth of the community and it is with the deepest regret and sincerest appreciation for 11 years of service that the board accepts his resignation as head football coach."

So ended the 11-year career of Maurice Pfeifer as the brains behind the success of the Washington C.H. high school football program.

Pfeifer plans to remain at his present positions of athletic director and assistant principal of the Middle School. He has decided to forgo any offers of continued coaching despite an impressive 68-37-5 record at Washington C.H. including a perfect 10-0 season that left the Blue Lions atop the final Associated Press poll in 1973.

"I've never done anything else," Pfeifer said of his coaching career. "I made up my mind before the season began that this would be my last year. I want to see how other people live during the fall."

Pfeifer contends that 11 years at the helm of the Blue Lions and 17 years as a head coach have taken its toll in many ways and he now wishes to spend more time with his family.

He said the time spent away from his family because of coaching duties "is evident when my middle son played an entire seventh grade football schedule and I wasn't able to see him play once."

To dispell any rumors that Pfeifer resigned after losing the final two games of the season to finish with a 7-3 mark, the letter was submitted after the Blue Lions swamped Wilmington, 18-0, leaving three games to play.

The letter was kept secret until late last week when it came out in the Washington C.H. Board of Education's agenda for this week's meeting.

Pfeifer said he made his intentions known to the board before the season ended so prospective future coaches could be viewed in game situations, but he didn't want the players to know which would add even more pressure on the team in its bid for the South Central Ohio League title.

He had contemplated making the announcement at last week's team banquet, but he said, "I didn't want to spoil a happy occasion."

Pfeifer admits that he had been thinking of resigning for the past several years, then made up his mind to wait until the present crop of 24 seniors played out their careers.

Calling himself a very competitive person by nature, Pfeifer said he wishes to accept new challenges including the further expansion of the athletic program at Washington Senior High School.

Heisman likely for Griffin

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State's Archie Griffin was expected here today to become the first player in the history of college football to win the Heisman Trophy for the second time.

If Griffin wins the 1975 Heisman, as expected, he would perform a feat which such past heroes as Army's Doc Blanchard, Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, Ohio State's Vic Janowicz and Navy's Roger Staubach were unable to accomplish. All won the Heisman in their junior years but failed to repeat as seniors.

The Associated Press learned that Griffin was told by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York on Monday to book a flight which would get him here in time for the noon, EST, announcement.

Some of Griffin's main challengers — running backs Ricky Bell of Southern California, Tony Dorsett of Pitt and Chuck Muncie of California—reported they had not been contacted by the Downtown A.C., which awards the Heisman annually "to the outstanding college football player in the United States." Others expected to finish high in the voting are Oklahoma running back Joe Washington and UCLA quarterback John Sciarra.

Griffin, a 5-foot-9, 192-pound tailback, finished the regular season as the nation's seventh leading rusher with 1,357 yards on 245 carries. En route, he became major college football's first 5,000-yard ground-gainer.

However, he fell 121 yards shy in his bid to break the all-time collegiate rushing mark of 5,297 set by Howard Stevens in two years at Randolph-Macon and two at Louisville. Randolph-Macon is a College Division school.

Deer season opens; record bag possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In crisp, cool weather described as ideal for deer hunters, Ohioans took to the woods for the opening day of gun season Monday and may have bagged a record total.

Dale Haney, chief of the State Division of Wildlife, said checks with key hunting stations in the southeast Ohio hunting area indicated the harvest exceeded the record take of 1,975 on opening day last year.

He said the "crisp, cool weather was ideal for deer hunters. If it holds for the rest of the week, we're almost sure we'll have another record deer harvest this year."

McKinney leads Northwestern

Wildcats stun Kentucky

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Billy McKinney is not quite a household name, not even where college basketball is a favorite topic of discussion around the dinner table. But that's about to change, according to Northwestern Coach Tex Winter.

"If there's a better guard in the United States, I'd like to know who he is," enthused Winter after McKinney's 31 points led Northwestern to a stunning 89-77 upset of seventh-ranked Kentucky Monday night. "I've been his fan since he came here as a freshman."

McKinney, a 6-foot junior, was the highest scoring guard in the Big Ten with an 18.2 average last season, but was little known on the national scene. Monday night, he hit on 11 of 16 field goal attempts and added nine free throws to lead the young Wildcats to their upset of Kentucky, runnerup to UCLA in last year's NCAA championships.

Northwestern led at the half 42-34, then broke it open by outscoring Kentucky 23-8 during the first nine minutes of the second half. Hilton Hale hit for eight of his 13 points and McKinney added six in that decisive spurt.

Kentucky was led by center Rick Robey, who scored 26 points, and Jack Givens, who added 15.

Northwestern, beaten 79-68 by unheralded Nebraska in its opener Saturday, is now 1-1 while Kentucky is 0-1.

Five other teams from The Associated Press' Top Twenty were in action Monday night, and all came up winners.

Tenth-ranked Cincinnati beat Miami, Ohio, 66-57; No. 11 Arizona overpowered Midwestern 119-80; 14th-rated Alabama defeated Southern Mississippi 91-67; No. 17 Auburn tripped Butler 80-69, and 18th-ranked Kansas State whipped Louisiana Tech 86-49.

Cincinnati failed to score in the first four minutes, but then sophomore center Bob Miller netted 17 points and pulled down 12 rebounds and the Bobcats overcame an 18-6 deficit to beat Miami.

Reserves Don Bowerman and Greg McElveen helped Alabama erase a seven-point deficit in the first half of the Crimson Tide's whipping of Southern Mississippi. Center Leon Douglas paced a balanced attack with 14 points.

Al Fleming hit all 10 of his field goal attempts in the second half to lead Arizona past Midwestern. Fleming was scoreless in the first half but finished with 20 points while Herman Harris led the Wildcats with 21 points, 19 of them in the first half.

Eddie Johnson scored 22 points and led a potent fastbreak attack that helped Auburn ease past Butler.

Kansas State bounced back from its opening loss to Texas Tech to rout Louisiana Tech. Senior guard Chuckie Williams popped in 28 points and also keyed a pressing man-to-man defense that forced 32 turnovers.

Dolphins victory may prove costly

MIAMI (AP) — Earl Morrall did what he's supposed to do. He came off the bench in place of sidelined Bob Griese and quarterbacked the Miami Dolphins to victory over New England.

But now the question is: will someone have to come off the bench next Sunday in place of Morrall?

Morrall's 41-year-old body held up long enough to lead Miami to an easy 20-7 National Football League triumph Monday night, but a knee injury may leave the Dolphins depending on an inexperienced thirdstringer at quarterback.

Morrall completed his first 13 passes to complement a strong running attack. He had the Dolphins ahead 17-0 in the third quarter before leaving the nationally televised game with ligament damage in his left knee.

Coach Don Shula said Morrall's status for Sunday's American Conference East Division first-place battle between the Dolphins (8-3) and Buffalo (7-4) was up in the air.

With Griese out for the remainder of the season, Don Strock is the only reserve available.

"If Earl's out, we'll look around — but this late in the season, it's hard to find anyone," Shula said.

Shula's fretting didn't draw any sympathy from Patriots' Coach Chuck Fairbanks.

"We were just overmatched," said Fairbanks. "They have a hard road to the Super Bowl but have the potential to get there."

Morrall ended up with 14 completions in 17 attempts for 135 yards but Fairbanks, a 1954 Michigan State teammate of Morrall, warned, "They will miss Griese. I thought Earl played well ... but he's not Griese."

Morrall was still walking after the game and predicted, "I'll be ready (Sunday)."

He completed seven of his passes to his backs and relied on the running of Don Nottingham (55 yards), Benny Malone (52 yards) and Norm Bulaich (37 yards) to control the game.

"I've got to keep up my image," said Morrall, a 20-year veteran trying to re-live 1968 and 1972 when he replaced injured Johnny Unitas and Griese to lead Baltimore and Miami to conference titles.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a bit radical, but I think the networks each year should invite cities other than New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco to serve as the locales of new series. This brainwave hit me the other day as I looked at the networks' new program schedules for January. Fun City, LA and the City by the Bay are amply represented as settings for new and returning programs. But places like Worcester, Mass., Peoria, Ill., or even fabled Short Pump, Va., are noticeably absent from the lineup of TV locales. True, Minneapolis hit the big time in 1970 as the setting for the hit "Mary Tyler Moore Show." Indianapolis and Milwaukee are the locales for two new situation comedies coming up this winter. The rest of America? Well, Chicago is represented in "Good Times" and "The Bob Newhart Show," while the nation's 50th state is showcased in "Hawaii Five-O." But that's it. Television's Big Three still have most of the action. The Los Angeles area is particularly laden with TV cops and gumshoes. It is there you'll find Cannon, Bronk, Joe Forrester, Harry O, Starsky and Hutch and the gang from "S.W.A.T.," "Police Woman" and "Police Story" keeping the streets safe for decent citizens. In January, two more cops, the Blue Knight and Jigsaw John, will join LA's law-and-order crew. If there's a car crash, a fire or a natural disaster, the "Emergency" crew will give first aid. All this is on a weekly basis. Every fourth week or so, Columbo also arrives, scratches his head, takes off his raincoat and solves a crime. San Francisco is a bit lighter in crime-fighting. It now only has the cops in "Streets of San Francisco" pounding a weekly beat, but in February a New York cop will move there in a show called "Superstar." One suspects he'll get fourthweek support from "McMillan and Wife." Considering its size, New York is very light on law and order now. Kojak and Ellery Queen are the only weekly crime-solvers, with assists coming every fourth week from a gendarme called McCloud. But the Big Apple is very heavy on laughter, and not just because it's still trying to sell municipal bonds. At least eight situation comedies with a New York-area setting will be with us at mid-season. San Francisco currently has only one sitcom but the Los Angeles area has four in the midseason schedule. The stranglehold New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco have on series' locales must be ended. The Big Three should be ignored next season and other American cities given a chance.

Bottled water possibly harmful

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — That little jug of water you buy at the corner store because it's "more healthful" than tap water could be doing more harm than good, a water quality expert says. "It's unfortunate. People think they're doing themselves good and they may be doing themselves harm," said Dr. John Christman, director of research at Loyola University. Christman, who has been studying water quality control for the Environmental Protection Agency, said forthcoming federal regulations may impose the same health standards on both bottled water and municipal water supplies. "That's a fortunate thing and I hope it happens right away," he said. "Bottled water at this moment is real Russian roulette. You have no idea what's in it, you don't even know if it meets community standards — it may be worse." The EPA is drawing up new standards for city water, and possibly bottled water, under the Water Quality Act of 1974. The standards are expected to be unveiled about Dec. 15. The tightened regulations follow the discovery last year that many major cities' water supplies were contaminated by organic chemicals and metals capable of causing cancer in animals. Those disclosures proved to be a boon for the bottled water industry, as cautious homeowners decided to play it safe and spend a few extra dollars for supposedly pure bottled water. It may not have been a very good trade-off, Christman said. There are currently no federal regulations governing bottled water which is not sold in interstate commerce. "Anybody could go out, buy a bunch of bottles and sell tap water," he said. As long as the water doesn't cross state lines, it is of no interest to federal agencies. Nor is there any requirement that such water be dated. "You could go to the store and buy a bottle of water that's been sitting on the shelf for seven months or more," Christman said. "That's really dangerous, especially when it's warm," because warm temperatures speed up the growth of bacteria. After 16 months of study, Christman has concluded that home water purification systems, despite their expense and bother, may be the only feasible way of insuring that water is fit to drink. To remove all of the germs, chemicals and metals from all of the water pumped through municipal water systems would be a massive undertaking — one that may not be technologically feasible or economically bearable.

Bob Evans Farms income declines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Net income for Bob Evans Farms, Inc., sausage and restaurant company, was down for the six months ended Oct. 24. Net income was $999,395, or $1.21, as compared $1,215,986, or $1.47 a year ago for a similar period. The decrease in net income resulted from all-time high hog costs the company experienced during the period, said Daniel E. Evans, board chairman.

In Focus

by
Charlie Pensyl

Thanksgiving's over and here we are, smack in the middle of the Christmas shopping season. Again this year the selection in the downtown area seems fantastic. Here at the camera shop the trend back to the darkroom seems to be the biggest factor in the shopping pattern. Cibachrome for Christmas — that's the theme this year and lots of folks have put out the word that a Cibachrome kit is just the thing for this year.

Cameras, too, are high on the list. From the Pocket Instamatics and Polaroid SX-70 to the Pentax SLR units, cameras seem to be on most of the lists Santa has been getting so far. The XL cameras have started a trend back to movies, it would seem. That's understandable, since the XL cameras and the fast Ektachrome film have made the old movie lights a thing of the past. People seem to like the idea of being able to pick up the movie camera and shoot indoors with just the lights in the room. And with the "G" film you don't even have to worry about color temperature. Easy! We should tell Osgood about this new movie system.

Projection screens are on many lists; I'll tell you why. Lots of folks are fed up with the dark spots and shadow areas on the old beaded screen and they want to go to a new lenticular fabric for more contrast and a sharper picture. As a guy said the other day, "Why spend an extra two hundred bucks for a sharp lens and then show the slides on a beaded screen that breaks down the sharpness of the image that you spent that extra loot to get?" That makes sense to me.

Books, too, make a wonderful gift at Christmas. And then there's electronic flash units, and filters, and darkroom kits for the beginner, and spot-meters for the pro — but your best bet is to come in and let us help you with your shopping. Come in and look around. We're still at 231 E. Court Street.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

One strange thing about bridge is not so much that the problems are sometimes difficult, but that in many cases there is no awareness at all that a problem exists.

Consider this deal where West leads a heart. It seems perfectly natural to win the heart and start running the diamonds. But when declarer plays the K-A of diamonds, West shows out and the contract is then in serious danger.

It is clear that continuing to lead diamonds is hopeless, so declarer shifts his attention to clubs, hoping to find the suit divided 3-3. When he cashes the A-K, West's jack falls, but when declarer next plays the ten from dummy, he finds there is no way of cashing his four club winners, whether he ducks the ten or overtakes it.

South can make the contract rather easily if he is smart enough to lead his clubs before his diamonds. In that case, after cashing the A-K-10, he can return to his hand with a diamond to the king and cash the queen of clubs to score his ninth trick.

Actually, this is the proper way to play the hand, since it gives declarer an extra chance for the contract. It solves matters neatly in the actual case, and does no harm in any other case.

Declarer has eight tricks to begin with and should make due allowance for cases where the diamonds are unfavorably divided. One distinct possibility is that either opponent may have the J-x of clubs (a 16 per cent chance), and he should test that suit before playing the king of diamonds from his hand.

Autistic Child Not Hopeless

Is there any hope that a child with autism will ever get well? Mrs. B.Z., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. Z.: Autism is a highly complex emotional disorder. A child burdened by this condition seems to live in a world far removed from reality.

Little or no communication exists between the child and family and friends.

Some autistic children are unable to acquire the simple skills that come so easily to other children.

Many other behavioral attitudes distinguish the autistic child from others. There was a time when doctors, educators and parents were in total despair about this condition.

Today, there seems to be some encouraging light on the horizon. The enlarged patterns of psychological testing reveal more and more areas in the child's personality. With this knowledge, and the new drugs that are now available, hope can replace despair.

I truly believe that the destiny of these children is anything but hopeless. Your sustained courage coupled with the support of educators and psychiatrists and with the newer chemical forms of treatment offer greater hope than ever for the autistic child.

When I walk into a lighted area from a dark room I get sharp shooting pains in my eyes. My eyes have been examined. I was told they are normal.

Miss R.T., Ohio

Dear Miss T: In the absence of any disease of the eyes, this symptom, known as "photophobia," does not have medical importance.

It is not unusual for people who are fair-complexioned and blonde to be annoyed by sudden changes in the intensity of light.

The simple remedy, of course, is to wear dark glasses when shifting from a dark room to a light room, thus giving the eyes a chance to adjust themselves to the change.

I injured my ear and caused bleeding. Can this be the cause of my mild deafness?

Mr. B.L., Wash.

Dear Mr. L.: If just the outer ear canal was injured and the eardrum was not hurt, deafness could not occur.

Sometimes, a small amount of blood may accumulate against the drum and temporarily limit its movement and thus interfere with hearing.

You must not make any attempt to remove this encrusted blood yourself.

Jason Rummer, who resides at 421 N. North St., was reported by police as sustaining minor abrasions to his chin. He was not treated. Police stated the impact of the collision knocked the youth into a parked auto belonging to Burton L. Johnson, 410½ N. North St.

Police investigated four additional traffic mishaps and charged one driver with a traffic offense. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two traffic accidents.

SHERIFF

1:20 p.m. - A car belonging to Sandra L. Moore, Sabina, was damaged by a hit-skip driver while parked at Stop 35, I-71 and U.S. 35.

Shoplift case checked

A 17-Year-old Washington C.H. boy was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers and charged with petty theft through shoplifting at 4:55 p.m. Monday at the K-Mart store, Columbus Avenue.

Police reported the youth attempted to conceal an auto tachometer valued at $16.88 and a knit toboggan valued at $1.17 while leaving the store without paying for the items. He was released to his parents.

Police also reported an incident of malicious destruction and a second case of larceny.

The side-view mirror and antenna were broken off a car belonging to Pam Edelblute, 146½ N. Fayette St., while the auto was parked in front of Rooney's Auto Parts store on W. Market Street from Sunday through Tuesday, police reported.

A Kodak Instamatic camera and black case were removed from an auto owned by John Stimpert, 10 Oxford Place, while the car was parked behind Dr. Robert Hagerty's office, 324 E. Court St., from 5:30 p.m. through 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Police are investigating the theft.

Divorce case remains puzzle

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Janna Boren, who filed for divorce from Gov. David Boren six weeks ago, has been back at the governor's mansion since Thanksgiving Day, but only to recuperate from minor surgery, a Boren aide says.

In a brief statement, the governor's news secretary, Rob Pyron, said Monday that Mrs. Boren underwent minor surgery last Tuesday and was released Thursday.

He declined comment on the status of the divorce action Mrs. Boren filed at Madill, her home town, on Oct. 22. The waiting period prescribed by law has expired and, since Boren did not contest the divorce, she could obtain the decree at any time.

Mrs. Boren reportedly has been making plans to move to Dallas.

Leader raps competition

CLEVELAND (AP) — Communications Workers of America President Glenn Watts says phone rates are being pushed up not only by inflation but by what he calls a "trend resulting from FCC decisions introducing competition into an industry in which the national policy... did not intend to have any competition."

If the 10-cent telephone call disappears from the American scene, he said Monday, it won't be because of high wages.

The union leader said national policy established by Congress called for a "natural monopoly in the telecommunications industry."

Watts said cheap phone service resulted from the policy under which home telephone service was partially subsidized by long-distance rates and business service rates.

He called wage increases under the present CWA-Bell system contracts "substantial but justified — they just managed to keep my people up with the cost of living (increase) that has occurred in the last couple of years."

Watts was in Cleveland for a regional conference attended by CWA delegates from Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Kitchens identified the other formally accused men as George L. Barido and William H. Wiles.

Indian fighter Simon Kenton is buried in Urbana, Ohio.

A low pressure center over Wisconsin was pushing toward Ohio today and was to move through the region this afternoon and tonight, bringing a little light snow to the northern counties.

This will be followed by a clearing trend this evening.

During the night, temperatures dropped well into the 20s, then leveled off and rose a few degrees in some places early this morning. Readings at daybreak ranged from the mid 20s in the northeast to the low 30s in the south-west.

Highs this afternoon will range from the mid 30s north to the low or mid 40s in the south, where some sunshine is likely. Cooler air coming in will drop temperatures into the 20s again tonight followed by fair weather Wednesday with highs in the 30s.

Fair Thursday and Friday with a chance of showers Saturday. Highs in the 40s Thursday, warming to the upper 40s and mid 50s by Saturday.

As early as 1808 there was a blast furnace in operation in Mahoning County, Ohio.

Xenia bus line at end of road

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Xenia's 18-month-old transit system, spawned by the city's April 3, 1974 tornado, is going out of business at the end of this month.

The city fathers decided Monday they can't afford to keep the X-Line system which was set up with federal funds as a demonstration project for small cities.

Xenia was to have assumed half of the annual cost of $400,000 starting the first of next year, with federal funds to make up the rest.

Voters in the Greene County community refused Nov. 4 to approve an increase in the city income tax that could have kept the system's 10 buses running, officials said.
